

RWP recertification requirements:

RWP recertification requirements consist of forty-eight (48) CEUs (continuing education units/hours) from courses, events, conferences, or seminars accepted for credit by IRWA. Attendance could be in an on-demand online, in-person or virtual setting or a combination of all three as a student or instructor, and is to be completed as follows:

IRWA coursework including 8 CEUs of ethics course – a minimum of 24 CEUs

1. A minimum of twenty-four (24) CEUs of IRWA coursework, eight (8) of which must be an IRWA ethics course.
2. A maximum of twenty-four (24) CEUs of additional IRWA coursework, or IRWA-sponsored events, which may include the Annual International Education Conference and/or approved chapter/region educational events.
3. A maximum of twenty-four (24) CEUs of non-IRWA courses, conferences or seminars from outside education vendors. This can also be applied to the twenty-four (24) CEUs in Item No. 2 referenced above.

Please note:

- RWP certificants taking IRWA courses for recertification credits are not required to take the course exam for in-person or virtual classes. However, for IRWA on-demand online courses, an exam must be taken to obtain recertification credits.
- You will only receive credit once for the same course you attended or instructed during a five-year recertification period.
- Ethics courses will only apply towards the ethics requirement.
- Non-IRWA and local IRWA Chapter courses/seminars/conferences related to right of way and/or real estate that will benefit the continuing education of IRWA certified right of way professionals no longer require approval for recertification credit from the IPEC Credentialing Subcommittee.
- There is no carryover of CEUs from one 5-year period to the next, even if those CEUs have not been used during a previous five-year period.
- IRWA Headquarters does not track completion of non-IRWA and local IRWA Chapter/Region seminars or conferences. It is your responsibility to save the completion certificates you received from those events and submit them to IRWA Headquarters along with your recertification application when you are due for recertification.
