

In This Issue...

We delve into IRWA's developing relationship with the government of Mexico, as well as other partners and organizations from around the world.

We heard from top officials on strides being made in telecommunications, energy and housing in Mexico. We had the opportunity to share best practices for infrastructure real estate professionals and experienced the best of Mexico City's history, art and culture—all while building new bridges with our VIP participants.

This experience was all made possible by our partner, Institute for Administration and Appraisal of National Real Estate (INDAABIN), who shares our purpose.

Please join us in exploring IRWA's Congress on Global Infrastructure Real Estate, beginning on page 24 of this issue.
