

A NEW BREED OF IRWA ONLINE LEARNING

BY DEIDRE ALVES, M.ED.

IRWA Vice President of Professional Development

There's a new breed of right of way online learning! It's called Video Enabled Integrated Technology (VEIT), and it will be exclusively available to all IRWA members through our newly revamped IRWA Learning Portal.

ONLINE LEARNING WITH A CLASSROOM FEEL

So often I receive comments that go something like this, "I like how easy it is to access your online courses and fit them into my busy schedule. It's a great way to fulfill my certification and continuing education requirements, but I really miss the classroom experience. I miss the interaction with my colleagues and the ability to feel connected to the instructors." Well, we heard you loud and clear.

VEIT brings you the best of both worlds by combining online delivery with an in-person meeting experience. VEIT is that sweet spot that blends the traditional, classroom learning experience with the ease and accessibility of online learning.

THE BLENDED CLASSROOM

The benefit of VEIT is that it enables IRWA to stage a real-life traditional classroom setting and transform it into a high-quality learning program. The certified IRWA instructors you have come to trust and respect are the same instructors used for VEIT classes. These instructors welcome you into the learning environment, speaking directly to you as they unfold the right of way course content and activities. You are not just an online viewer, but part of a worldwide classroom, learning right alongside the and production process required enormous collaboration between IRWA members, leadership, Headquarters, and production teams to bring the project to life. The response among the pilot participants was overwhelmingly positive, demonstrating that this significant undertaking has been worth the effort.

This first VEIT course is currently in its final phase of production and is scheduled for release in the coming months. Stay tuned for its official launch date, which will be communicated through promotional vehicles and IRWA's Member Network. All members will be given an exclusive registration opportunity on the day of its release.

In conjunction with IRWA's Five-Year Curriculum Design Plan, all IRWA beginning-level "core" courses are on target to participants that you see in the video. You actually share the experience as classroom participants ask questions and share their stories.

IRWA's will unveil the first VEIT course this fall with Course 213 - Conflict Management. The course was piloted in early May through IRWA's Learning Lab, which serves as a testing ground for trying out new learning products for IRWA members, chapters and regions worldwide. The multi-tiered planning be developed in this new format. In a second stage of development, these VEIT classes will offer live instructor "office hours," where online learners can communicate directly with the instructor for a specified time period.

As we continue the design, development and production of the IRWA Learning Experience, we are listening to you as you express your needs and wants. And in so doing, we welcome you to the VEIT experience.
